

What's cookin' Good lookin'?

And I saw it fall off the tree and dived under it to catch it, and looked around for the owner- but I couldn't see anyone who was old enough to own something like that! Well, you mean it wasn't old? It was covered in dust! Completely covered! All things that are old should be covered in dust don't you think? I think so- that makes it so much easier to see how old something is. I have a coating of dust at least a foot thick. Where was I? Oh yeah, then they were in the bushes and roared so loud that I was blown backwards- What do you mean? Was I telling the other story? Really? Good. Sorry about that- are you sure you don't want the rest of the other story? Oh, ok, I put it in my pouch- If I hadn't who knows what would have come in and stolen it!
